

Ciget Granma was created in 2000, forming part of the territorial structures of the vertical system of the Institute of Scientific and Technological Information (Idict), which belongs to the Agency for Nuclear Energy and Advanced Technology (Aenta) and is subordinate to the Ministry of Science, Technology and Environment (Citma).

Mission and Vision of Ciget Granma.

The Mission of Ciget Granma projects the organization to promote social, business, scientific development and other forms of management, with comprehensive solutions based on knowledge management and highly competitive professionals.

This requires that, in the current conditions of the Cuban economy, a consistent strategy be drawn up and committed to social responsibility, aimed at obtaining the material, human and financial resources that allow its harmonious development, in accordance with its Vision, which places it as a leader in comprehensive reference solutions that contribute to the sustainable development of organizations and society, through the articulation of management systems, the efficient use of capacities and the enhancement of knowledge.

With this aim, Ciget Granma, through the effective performance of Comprehensive Consultancies and Business Intelligence, guarantees the training, development and efficiency of business, scientific and other forms of management organizations through the generation of knowledge and a process approach, recognized for quality of services and a highly committed, competent human capital that has the cultural dimension incorporated, an element that acquires a differentiating connotation of the know-how and the power to be of the organization.